

Countable and Uncountable Nouns

In English grammar, words that refer to people, places, or things are called nouns. They can be classified in many ways. One way to classify nouns is according to whether they can be counted or not.

- Countable nouns are things we can count. A countable noun can be singular (banana) or plural (bananas).

Examples: I eat a banana every day.

I like bananas.

We do not have enough cups.

- Uncountable nouns are things we cannot count. An uncountable noun has only one form (a singular form). These words are thought of as wholes rather than as parts. They usually refer to abstractions (such as confidence or advice) or collectives (such as equipment or luggage).

Examples: I eat rice every day.

I like rice.

We do not have enough water.

Using Countable & Uncountable Nouns

When using countable or uncountable nouns, pay attention to articles and adjectives! Some articles and adjectives can be used with both countable and uncountable nouns. However, others can be used with only countable or only uncountable nouns.

❖ How much/ How many

- We use how much and how many to ask about quantities.
 - ✓ How much + uncountable nouns
 - ✓ How many + countable nouns

❖ Some/Any

- We use some with affirmative sentences with both countable and uncountable nouns.

Examples: There are some potatoes.

There is some water.

- We use any with negative sentences, with both countable and uncountable nouns.

Examples: We haven't got any bananas.

We have not got any bread.

- We use some in questions when we ask for things and offer things.

Example: Can I have some water?

- We use any with both countable and uncountable nouns in questions.

Examples: Are there any tomatoes?

Is there any meat?

❖ A/An

- Use a before singular countable nouns that begin with consonant. Ex: She is a photographer.
- Use an before singular countable nouns that begin with a vowel sound. Ex: She is an artist.
- Do not put a / an before plural nouns. Instead, use plural countable nouns alone. Ex: I like bananas.

❖ A lot of/ Much/ Many/ little/ a little/ few/ a few

- We use a lot of in affirmative and negative sentences, and in questions, with both countable and uncountable nouns. Examples: I eat a lot of fish.
I drink a lot of milk.
- We use much in negative sentences and questions, with uncountable nouns. We never use much in affirmative sentences. Examples: I don't eat much salt.
Do you eat much salt?

N.B. A lot of can also be used in these cases: I don't eat a lot of salt.

- We use many in negative sentences and questions with countable nouns. Example: I don't eat many cakes.
- We can use few, a few and many with countable nouns. Examples: I have got few friends.
I've got a few dollars
- We use little, a little and much with uncountable nouns. Examples: I've got little time.
I have got a little money.
I haven't got much rice
